The DIMMER VIEW

Protection Needed From Juvenile Criminals

Last year in California, more than 350,000 juveniles under the age of 18 were arrested.

Of these arrests, more than one third were for felony violations, including murder, forcible rape, aggravated assault and armed robbery.

And that total doesn't include felony drug charges, many of which were reduced by weak-spined district attorneys or by judges whose hearts bleed for drug users and pushers.

Burglary is growing so fast in the East County that law enforcement finds little time for common patrol protection because officers spend more and more time writing reports on burglary, robbery, and thievery, which includes autos.

These juvenile criminals committed 300 murders and 7,180 aggravated assaults! This figure shows the rise of a new breed of juvenile offender — a tough violent criminal some of whom boast up to 65 prior arrests before turning 18 — who's continually in and out of the state's juvenile justice system as though it were a good-time social club.

Many of the crimes are associated with drugs. A narcotics officer here tells us that an auxiliary business has become active among teen-agers in the Spring Valley area. Pushers from Tijuana meet with youngsters and set prices in terms of kilos of Mexican marijuana for such items as radios, sewing machines, refrigerators, washers, power mowers, outboard motors and the like. They meet later on, at night, and the burglarized items are exchanged. The youngsters peddle what "pot" they do not keep for themselves. The traders carry the stolen items across the Mexican border where serial numbers mean little, and they sell the items to unwary residents of Baja California.

Last month, at a Spring Valley school, a 14-year old student was booked for being under the influence of marijuana. He said his 13-year old buddy had bought a "baggie" a couple of days before. This lad confessed and gave the stuff to the cops. Where did he get it? From a 12-year old pusher who had plenty of spending money since he became part of the pot-barter action. It is not yet known how many of what items he stole to stay in the ring.

Bill Craven, District 76 assemblyman, said the juvenile criminal justice system has failed. An emerging core of repeat juvenile criminals account for a significant number of crimes in California each year and are becoming a "major social threat."

This hard core, less than amenable to rehabilitation attempts has outgrown the paternal atmosphere of the state's juvenile justice system.

Does the present rehab system work?

On April 3, this year, Mrs. Marie Romero, a teacher at El Paso de Robles School, a California Youth Authority Rehabilitation Center, for "poor misguided youths who are victims of society", was stomped to death by some of the Center's students.

Mrs. Robles, 51, and mother of four, had also suffered attempted rape.

Three years ago another female teacher had been gang-raped at the same institution.

There is something wrong with the system as well as the institutions.

The system was established to serve as an understanding, surrogate "parent" for troublesome youngsters who had committed minor offenses. Juvenile courts are no longer able to deal with serious or violent juvenile offenders — the kind being seen more and more often today.

A first-step bill is in the legislative hopper to attempt to turn the tide on today's repeat, violent juveniles, who have shown themselves to be beyond the scope of the current justice system, Craven says.

It would segregate experienced, violent juveniles from those adolescents who commit one-time or infrequent minor offenses.

It will redirect those with a well-established pattern of criminal action to the state's adult courts. There, adult legal rights, such as trial by jury and right to bail will be afforded him while he is being exposed to the same trial proceedings reserved for what has been traditionally viewed as "adult" offenses — murder, mayhem, armed robbery and other crimes of violence.

It will tighten informal probation procedures but gives probation officers greater power to retain violent juveniles after an arrest.

The responsibilities of the district attorney relative to juvenile court cases will be expanded, including the right to represent the victims of juvenile crime.

This latter will be a good addition. DA's show less than enthusiastic interest in protecting victims in burglary and robbery cases today.

A final word on the present system. A case in which the writer has personal knowledge has to do with a juvenile burglary. The youngster was caught and he confessed.

During the investigation it was learned that he was born from a previous marriage by one of his parents. One parent (present whereabouts unknown) had a record of alcoholism. Juvenile Court ordered welfare to provide the mid-teenager with enough funds ($170 a month) to keep him interested in staying in school. He used the money to visit a girlfriend up north and came home when his money ran out. On the second or third, when the check came, off he goes like a grey goose. It went on for at least two years. The funds stopped only because he became an adult. Theoretically, adult funds took over at that time.

Certainly, juvenile justice means better rehabilitation than that.

Teenagers Here Add to Sheriff's Deputies' Woes

A trio of teenagers plagued the sheriff's office last week.

Marijuana Charge

On May 16, a 17-year old youth who lives on Primera st. in Lemon Grove was arrested by deputies after he tossed away a plastic bag containing marijuana during an investigation at 10:45 p.m. May 18.

The officers investigated when they observed a group of young people gathered around a parked auto.

Two young females ran across the street into a house. Others were questioned and released.

The teenager admitted ownership of the marijuana and was transported to juvenile hall.

Police Record Grows

A 17-year old youth who lives on Cardiff st. in Lomita Village was charged with possessing marijuana paraphernalia after officers found a wooden pipe, smelling of marijuana in his car.

He and a friend were pushing the auto at 8 p.m. along Taft st. in Lemon Grove after dark. The youth reportedly became so verbally abusive while being questioned that he had to be gagged, the report said.

His parents said he was beyond their control. His record showed charges of malicious mischief and trespass, July, 1966, trespass, January 1970; robbery and petty theft, September 1970; beyond control, May, 1972; beyond control, April 1973; burglary, July, 1974 and petty theft, October, 1974.

A new item may now be added to the list.

Fictitious Names

Sheriff's deputies questioned a 16-year old girl they discovered in an area bar because she appeared to be younger than the 21-year age she claimed.

Her ID card, sheriff's deputies reported, was a phoney one, the kind found in a specialty store.

She had a roach clip hanging to a belt loop of her Levis and it smelled of burnt marijuana, so she was charged with possession of marijuana paraphernalia.

She gave a different fictitious name but told officers she had been hospitalized two months previously when her arm was lacerated. A check of hospital records indicated that she had also given them a fictitious name and her age as 19.

Further investigation revealed that she had been living with a girl friend in Pacific Beach and was drawing $176 a month from the Department of Welfare — under still another fictitious name. Her check was cashed by her friend who kept the money, she said.

It was finally discovered that she was a 16-year old runaway from the state of Washington and that her parents said by telephone that she had run away on three other occasions—the last being in January of this year.

Evidence was unearthed that associated her with several motorcycle gangs—including Hell's Angels.

She is in juvenile hall awaiting hearing.

Donut House Robbed

Lemon Grove has had its Great Donut holdup!

It happened about 2 o'clock Sunday morning at Winchell's Donuts, 7863 Broadway.

At that time a Mexican male, about 20, is reported to have entered the place and ordered from salesgirl Edna T. Codina, 48, a jelly donut—"and put your money in a bag and lie down on the floor. I don't want to hurt you."

She screamed and Norman A. Poole, 61, a donut baker, came from the kitchen to see why. He was ordered to join Codina on the floor.

The victims reported that the man, who weighed about 140 pounds, used a blue steel, .38 calibre revolver to perform his deed, which produced $141. He had no accent, the pair said. He fled through the parking lot which fronts the Sheriff's Lemon Grove office.

The rear of the donut shop abuts the side of the Sheriff's office. Officers were not on duty at the time, however.

Purse Taken While Clothes Are Drying

Martha Mae Scholl, of 3903 Conrad dr., Spring Valley, was doing her laundry May 16 about 10 p.m. in a 24-hour public laundry. She put her purse on a washer while she put her clean clothes in a dryer.

Two suspects, both described as white male youths about 18-20, ran through the laundry, snatched up her purse and ran out the back door.

Her loss was undetermined.

'Makes Out Like A $900 Burglar'

A burglar profited by $900 from a visit to the home of James Anderson Stitler, of 10401 San Carlos dr., Spring Valley on Sunday.

Cutting the screen on an open kitchen window, he "made out like a burglar."

Missing were several pieces of camera equipment including a Yashica camera, $45; a Kodak sound camera, $200; a sound projector, $250; two binoculars, $125; box of costume jewelry, a pocket watch and other items.

Motor Taken, Cycle Left

It was not so lucky for Lucky Yamaha, 7345 Broadway, Lemon Grove, when employees of the firm went into the storage area to bring out a motorcycle. Someone had taken the motor.

It was a Sachs 125cc, 1970 model and valued at $350.

The vehicle was last checked two months before. The storage yard is surrounded by a chain link fence.

Two Cited at S.V. Swap Meet

Christopher Paul Weber, 19, of 1116 Purdy dr., Spring Valley, was cited May 18 at the Spring Valley Swap Meet Sunday when he allegedly failed to fill in the required forms competely.

Sheriff's deputies say he failed to list serial numbers of items he was offering for sale. Missing from the list were a record player and a reel-to-reel recorder.

At the same meet, the same day Michael Allen Kelly, 26, of San Diego, was also arrested at the Spring Valey meet on the same charge. Sheriff's deputies reported that his sales form failed to carry serial numbers of a bicycle and a stereo outfit.

Both will be arraigned in El Cajon Municipal Court.

Customers Argue, Till Tapped

A till tap was reported at Schmits Liquor Store Saturday at 4:30 by Keith E. Curtis, 61, the store's clerk.

Curtis reported that a black male, about 25 years of age, made a purchase and needed additional money to pay. The customer told Curtis his companion was in the car outside and that he'd get the rest of the money from him.

He reentered the store with a black male, about 45, and the two began to argue about the brands to be purchased. Each began to shop for his choice at opposite parts of the store.

After they decided what they wanted. paid for it and left, Curtis noticed that some of the money was missing from the register.

He called the owner named "Homes" who called sheriff's deputies.

At the scene an inventory of the register was taken and it was $360 short.

It was not ascertained how the thief got into the register since the noise of it opening is comparatively loud. The clerk reportedly didn't hear the noise.

Welfare Recipients Raised $34-a-Month

Welfare program cost of living adjustments scheduled for July 1 will mean a payment increase averaging $34 a month for needy families and $15 a month for the state's aged and disabled recipients, the California Health and Welfare Agency announced. Monthly checks to blind recipients will be $18 larger.

"The additional money will be welcomed by every needy Californian trying to cope with inflation," said Health and Welfare Secretary Mario G. Obledo.

Obledo said a cost of living increase will also occur July 1 in the Food Stamp program which is currently aiding 1.5 million Californians, most of whom are also receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children benefits.

"The increase in Food Stamp benefits will come entirely from U. S. Department of Agriculture funds, he said. "California's share of the other increases in already provided for in the budget and will not result in new taxes."

Two Million

Acting Director of Benefit Payments Jerry Prod said the increase will go to about 1.4 million men, women, and children in the AFDC program and another 680,000 persons in the federally-administered Supplemental Security Income/State Supplementary Program for the aged, blind, and disabled.

In the AFDC category, the amount of the increase varies with the number of persons in the family. For example, a family of four will receive a $38 a month payment increase, the result of an increase in the four - person maximum payment level from $311 to $349.

Narcotics Charge Issued Against 4

Sheriff's deputies stopped a car at Jamacha and Elkelton in Spring Valley at 10:30 p.m. May 13, that reportedly was without a current registration sticker on its license.

During the investigation, one of the occupants, police say, became argumentative and showed signs of having used narcotics prior to the stop.

Carlos Gonzales, 23, of 1315 Darby st., Spring Valley, who said he was in the Federal Narcotics Prevention Program, was charged with being under the influence of narcotics. Police said he is on a narcotics parole charge. And so is Frank Alfred Sabin, 40, of 7465 Pacific st., Lemon Grove, another passenger.

The driver, Gilbert Jesse Porros, 27, of 7314 4th ave., San Diego and Sheri Ellen Miner, 21, of 1315 Darby st.. Spring Valley were given "under the influence" charges, police records show.

Police allege that recent "track" marks were found on the arms of all but Sabin.

A record check showed that the vehicle had been issued a temporary license.

The four will be arraigned in El Cajon Municipal Cout.

Lips That Touch Liquor May Sometimes Lose Purse

Sheriff's deputies, on routine patrol, Sunday about midnight, stopped to investigate a group of people in front of a cocktail lounge on Sweetwater rd., Spring Valley.

There, a San Diego housewife, told officers that she had been inside the lounge earlier in the evening, having cocktails and listening to country music.

A husband-wife couple, also country music-lovers invited the woman out to their car to listen to a country-music tape. She put her purse on the hood of the car while she listened.

The three re-entered the lounge and spent another 45 minutes listening to music and drinking.

The San Diego woman then drove home only to discover she had left her purse at the lounge — presumably on the hood of the couple's car. She drove back to the lounge where the music-loving couple and the bartender went to the parking lot to see if the purse could be found. The four were milling around when the deputies observed them.

Search of the lot, the lounge and the couple's car was futile — the purse was not to be found.

The loser said the purse was valued at $50 and that she had $295 in cash inside it.

Curtain Rises for 'Godspell' Tuesday

The international success "Godspell' opens Tuesday at the Carter Centre Stage in Balboa Park. Performances are scheduled except Monday at 8:30 p.m. plus Saturday and Sunday matinees at 2 p.m.

"Godspell" is based on the book 'Feast of Fools' by Harvey Cox and on the gospel of Matthew with excerpts from Luke and John. The Feast of Fools was a day of the year when the fools in a town took over and poked fun at the pompous airs of the priests and magistrates of the town. Just as this tended to keep the humility and humanity in the hierarchy, so do the clowns around Jesus in "Godspell" remind the audience to keep simplicity and joy in religion and lives.

Reserved seat tickets to performances of "Godspell" are now on sale at the Old Globe Theatre box office in Balboa Park. Telephone reservations are accepted at 239-2255, 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Reduced price tickets are available to full time students through college and senior citizens (60 and over) to certain regular performances during each week.

"Godspell" is being presented in conjunction with the 26th San Diego National Shakespeare Festival. "The Tempest," "Much Ado About Nothing" and "Measure for Measure" will be staged from June 3 through September 14 in the Old Globe Theatre, adjacent to the Carter Centre Stage in Balboa Park.

Meals For Elderly Get More State Funds

Another commitment of nutrition-for-the-elderly funds to California from newly released federal monies for Title VII of the Older Americans Act has boosted this state's allotment to $12.6 million for the current fiscal year, Acting Director Stan Nielsen of the California Office on Aging reported.

It amounts to a 50% increase in nutrition funding for senior Californians.

The federal Administration on Aging said that California can anticipate receiving $2.15 million more than the $2.1 million previously announced as the state's share of monies released by the Office of Management and Budget in Washington, D.C., Nielsen said.

"This means California will have more than $4 million in new nutrition money to allocate to new and existing projects."

The California program, funding 54 nutrition projects for the aging at some 300 meal sites, has been at an annual level of $8.4 million. An estimated 17,000 or more people 60 years of age or older are served by the projects, which offer a daily hot meal five days a week.

Virtually all nutrition projects have had to limit themselves in the face of greater need than they have been able to meet.

A priority system of allocating the funds has already been established, and will include start-up of new projects and expanding the capabilities of those already in operation, he said.

Knuckle-Cracking Not Dangerous, Journal Reports

If your children persist in popping their metacarpal-phalangeal joints, it isn't all it's sometimes cracked up to be.

In fact, studies have shown that this adolescent phenomenon, which is better known as knuckle cracking, doesn't inevitably lead to arthritis, contrary to popular misconception.

Instead, it leads primarily to annoyance of those subjected to the resulting noise, according to a report in the May issue of California Medical Association's Western Journal of Medicine.

FDA Seeks Public Comment On Candy Wgt. Law Change

How many times have you treated yourself to a candy bar, only to find that you had as much wrapping as you had candy?

The Food and Drug Administration is asking for comments from the public on a proposal by the National Confectioners Association for exemption from the requirement that the net quantity of contents be stated on the wrappers of candy bars. Current law requires that wrappings of candy bars state the net weight of the contents. The proposal before the FDA requests that the net weight statement be omitted.

The State Department of Consumer Affairs has sent testimony to the FDA opposing the exemption on the basis that the plan could result in deception to the consumer.

The Department is asking consumers who feel the same way to send their comments as soon as possible to: Food and Drug Administration, 5600 Fishers lane, Room 4-65, Rockville, Md. 20852.

Air Pollution

Pollution of the air around us is not only distasteful—to look at, to smell—but is also dangerous to our health. The problem of air pollution is virtually world-wide, but in urban areas of California it is particularly prevalent.

The chief sources of air pollution are waste burning, manufacturing plants, electric power plants and motor vehicles. Many of these sources burn what is known as fossil fuels or their products, including coal, oil and gasoline. In the process of the combustion of these substances, air pollutants are formed.

The most recognizable form of air pollution in most environments is photochemical smog which is formed when a combination of pollutants react in the presence of sunlight and heat for a period of one to two hours or longer.

The specific effects on your health of the major pollutants are as follows:

Sulfur dioxide. This invisible gas emanates mainly from certain stationary sources. It causes destruction of the tissues that line the upper and lower respiratory tract.

Particulate matter. This is what you see billowing out from the stacks of plants, diesel trucks and from open fires. These are the least toxic of the pollutants because they are usually large enough to be screened out by protective structures in the respiratory tract; however, there is some reason to believe that they may contribute to cancer.

Carbon monoxide. This odorless gas is found in high concentration near manufacturing plants and close to congested freeways. It is particularly likely to cause problems in persons with coronary artery disease and certain other disorders affecting the blood vessels. It is also known to have an adverse effect on the red blood cells and to affect the judgment.

Oxidants. These pollutants result when other polluting substances interact with heat and sun, forming photochemical smog. Ozone and other oxidants increase the aging of all cells with which they come in contact. They decrease the pulmonary function of normally healthy people and constitute a genuine threat to persons with existing respiratory disease, such as bronchial asthma, emphysema, chronic bronchitis and bronchiectasis.

These ominous substances also make persons more susceptible to viral and bacterial infections. Recent research suggests that exposure to high levels of oxidants can impair the efficiency of the central nervous system and may cause genetic damage.

In view of what has been clearly demonstrated about the dangers of air pollution, what can we do?

- Keep in touch with all public officials who have the power to pass laws and/or enact regulations which could reduce the level of air pollution—and let your anti-pollution position be known.
- Stop smoking — it not only pollutes the air but damages your own lungs and makes them more vulnerable to injury from other pollutants.
- If you have a chronic lung or heart disease, check with your physician to find out whether you should increase the dosage of your usual medication during periods of high pollution. See your doctor if symptoms change or get worse.
- Reduce your exposure to pollutants as much as possible—by staying indoors during periods of high risk and by equipping at least one room in your home with an activated charcoal air filter which will eliminate most of the oxidants from the inside air.

In summary, what you can do is to fight the battle against air pollution on both the public and private levels. Continue to fight for clear air as a major public issue. Protect your own health as an equally important private issue.

Pest Control Vital as Days Warm

Summer's approach heralds the traditional time for inviting friends and relatives to visit, but you must be constantly on guard against inviting unwelcome guests in the form of dooryard pests.

For instance, are there any cracks along the baseboards, doors or windows of your home? Do you keep stacks of old newspapers, boxes or boards? Are there piles of trash, lumber, compost or humus in your backyard?

If the answer to any of the questions is yes, you are inviting a mass home invasion or irksome exterior problem with one or more species of nuisance insects known as dooryard pests.

This word of warning comes from John Morganroth, San Diego District Chairman of Pest Control Operators of California, Inc., a 300 member non-profit trade association.

Dooryard Pests

Morganroth identifies dooryard pests as silverfish, firebrats, psocids, clover mites, springtails, earwigs and crickets.

None is harmful to humans, he says, but each can form a major annoyance when present in or around a home in large numbers.

The area official of PCOC adds that most of the pests restrict themselves to a diet of plants and will invade a home mainly for purposes of harborage.

However, look-alike, carrot-shaped silverfish and firebrats will feed on fabrics, paper, books and starches; minute psocids (booklice) will contaminate stored food products and crickets will attack textiles and fur.

The other pests, if unchecked, can cause extensive damage to lawns and garden plants. The PCOC official offers this detailed information on the various vermin:

Meet Your Pest

Silverfish—Silver to brown in color. About ½ inch long. Live in damp areas indoors or out, usually underneath boxes, boards, debris, etc. Will also get into glue or paste. Leave yellowish stains, especially on linens.

Firebrats — Mottled grayish brown. About ½ inch long. Prefer warm areas indoors, so usually found near heating units or hot water pipes. Require some moisture to exist. Also leave yellowish stains.

Psocids—Yellow to brown in color and measure only ½ millimeter. Prefer damp, warm, undisturbed situations such as the bark under trees or seldom used cereal products. Normally live outside but may be found in furniture and store food products.

Clover Mites—About size of a pin head. Colors range from reddish brown to green. Feed on lawn, wild grasses, clover and other plants. Attracted to warmth of house for hiding place. Can overrun house by entering through cracks along baseboards, doors or windows.

Springtails — Colors vary from white to bright metallic. Only a few millimeters long. Eat decaying plant and animal matter and living plants. Prefer damp places and are found around sinks, tubs, drains, moist walls, moist flower beds and humus piles.

Earwigs—Reddish brown in color. About ½ to 1 inch long. Will eat almost anything they can chew but prefer garden plants. Will hide in large numbers under stones, boards, boxes or newspapers. In invading home, tend to infest bedrooms and closets.

Crickets — Gray to dark brown to black in color. Can be 3/5 to 2 inches long. Active only in summer and mostly nocturnal. Will enter house when food supply of grasses runs out. Don't adjust well to inside and will eventually die.

The PCOC official says preventive measures against dooryard pests are obvious—seal cracks by which they can gain entry and keep the home and yard clean and free of possible harborage.

Sprays containing chlordane, malathon or diazinon are most effective in combatting the pests, he adds. But if infestation is severe, he suggests the calling of a licensed pest control professional.

PCOC consumer education programs include offering the public an informative booklet on common household pests entitled "Consumers Guide to Household Pests."

The booklet may be obtained free of charge by writing PCOC at 3444 W. 1st St., Los Angeles 90004.

L.G. Soroptimists Establish Amorita Treganza Scholarship

A scholarship for women who are forced by economic circumstances to re-enter the business world is being offered by the Lemon Grove Soroptimist Club, according to Ilse E. Hanning, who heads the group's scholarship committee.

The scholarship is in the name of Dr. Amorita Treganza, a Lemon Grove optometrist, who inadvertently sponsored the project when she wrote a book, "I Declare: You Are Now Duly Installed". The book is a guide for club installations and is distributed nationwide. The success was such that she donates all of the proceeds to the Lemon Grove Soroptimist Club, of which she is a member.

When returns reached the level that the income from interest was great enough to provide scholarships, the project was named in her honor.

"I am pleased," Dr. Treganza said. "Particularly since the income will be perpetual and the fund will grow as more of the books are purchased by the nation's libraries."

Hanning said first priority among scholarship candidates will be given to women of the Lemon Grove-Spring Valley areas.

Final selection of candidates, in addition to need, will be based on references from non-relatives testifying as to character, stability, ambition and worthiness.

Deadline for application is June 15. Applications should be in writing to P.O. Box 518, Lemon Grove, CA 92045.

Other specifics are available from Cindy Ratekin at 465-1888, 9-12 noon or from Ilse Hanning. 469-2119, 1-4 p.m.

NEW TAR POT — J. H. Spratley examines the Department of Public Health's permit to operate his new anti-pollution asphalt burner which will help keep the air cleaner around roofing job sites. Spratley was the first in the county to receive the certificate in compliance to new air pollution standards.

S.V. Roofer is 1st With Low-Pollutant Tar Pot

J. H. Spratey is the first roofer in the county to clean up his act.

The Spring Valley roofing company, located at 9029 Olive dr., Spring Valley has purchased a new closed-system tar pot which conceals burning asphalt and burns up harmful pollutants instead of releasing them into the air.

A new rule proposed by the Department of Public Health will make open-burning tar pots illegal after October 31 this year. Failure to adopt the enclosed system will mean a maximum penalty of $500 and/or 6 months in prison, according to Air Polution Engineer Barney McEntire.

Though he doubts that judges will press the full sentence on violators of the misdemeanor, McEntire stresses that the new polution controls will be enforced in November.

Spratley's unit was the first in the county to receive a pollution control certificate after county inspectors checked out his new equipment Friday.

Studies of pollutants emitted in tar pots are relatively recent. The black, smelly smoke pouring from the device has been found to contain more harm than some industry spokesmen believed existed.

Research conducted by the University of California Berkeley, completed in November, showed that tar pot emissions contained particular emissions, sulfur compounds, carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons—the same chemicals for which pollution control equipment on automobiles is required.

Some in the roofing industry had previously maintained that the emissions were only steam, according to the pollution engineer.

Huey Spratley, owner of the Spring Valley roofing firm, welcomes the new equipment. In addition to being safer for workers who feed the tar pot, people in or near a roofing construction site will no longer be subjected to the offensive smell and the harmful chemicals which result from burning asphalt.

Spratey has been in business for almost ten years at his present location.

4 Days, 5 Events Is Ascot Weekend

GARDENA — Ascot Board Chairman J. C. Agajanian and President Johnnie Parsons, a pair of racing veterans with impeccable Indianapolis credentials of their own, will stage a $25,000 "Salue to Indy" in five major events over the Memorial Day weekend at Ascot.

The unusually high purse bonanza starts with the first night NASCAR late-model sportsman race of the season Friday at 8 o'clock. Hugh Pearson of Bakersfield and Ray Johnstone of San Bernardino try to duplicate earlier afternoon wins.

On Saturday night, the California Racing Assn. sprint cars expect a field of 70 cars to qualify—including a half dozen shiny 1975 machines—for their 100-lap salute. Bob Olivero of Lakewood and Bob East of Bellflower are only two of the young drivers with Indy futures of their own.

Doubleheader

Sunday, the doubleheader fare includes the dune-buggies and Baja bugs of the S. Cal. Independent Drivers' Assn. in the afternoon and the Figure 8 stock cars with a giant demolition derby in the evening.

Parsons himself will drive the pace for the Figure 8's only 11-row, 33-car start of the year.

Climaxing this four-wheel holiday weekend will be the first of three Winston West Grand National NASCAR late-model races in the annual "Memorial 100." Defending Memorial champion Sonny Easley of Van Nuys, perennial point champion Ray Elder of Caruthers, and Jimmy Insolo of Mission Hills lead the field.

The nation's finest distance-running quarter horses are expected to compete in the War Chic Stakes, the first of six stakes events on the summer calendar written especially for 870-yard specialists. Heading the lineup of expected War Chic starters are track record-holder The Moonshiner, state record-holder Arete, Go Deer Go and Wheatland.

The Leo Stakes, a 350-yard dash, will offer Southern California fans their first look at the 1975 crop of 2-year-olds. Several top freshmen could make the Monday night Leo their first start of the meeting, including Sold Short, purchased for $100,000 last year as a yearling; Miss Truly Night, a full sister to former champion Truly Night, Rocky Carina, a full brother to Rocky Denuedo, and Oh Daddy Oh, a full brother to The Honker who sold for $22,500 in the All-American Yearling Sale last year.

Art Hafey, Title Bound Rematched Against Leal

World featherweight contender Art Hafey, highly active of late, meets Mexican Julio Leal in a rematch this Friday at the Coliseum.

Regular boxing at the downtown arena was washed out last week by the Muhammed Ali-Ron Lyle heavyweight championship on home television.

Hafey, who will duel Nicaragua's Yambito Blanco in a title elimination bout on June 20th at the Forum, has prepared for the battle by winning five straight contests over a period of just three months.

In his most recent local appearance, the Irishman from Pacific Beach halted Houston's Juan Barra in thee rounds, and only 12 days ago, stopped Jorge Valenzuela in an abbreviated Las Vegas encounter.

"Art wants to keep as busy as possible before the Blanco affair," manager-trainer Burke Emery said. "That way, we know he'll be properly tuned and ready to go."

Julio Leal

Leal, a rangy, 22 year old youngster from El Centro, fought a courageous encounter with Hafey in February, though losing a 10 round points verdict. One week prior to that outing, Julio held unbeaten Clairemont teenager Manuel Lujan to a split draw, the lone blemish on the latter's pro record.

All Star Status Won By Lacroix, Morrison, Rivers

San Diego Mariner players Andre Lacroix, Kevin Morrison and Wayne Rivers have received post-season honors from all-star teams listing World Hockey Assn. performers for the 1974-75 season.

Lacroix and Morrison were both picked on the WHA's first all-star team while Rivers was selected on the third squad. Lacroix and Rivers were both named on the Hockey News first team while Lacroix was listed on the Sporting News first unit and Morrison and Rivers on the second group.

Lacroix, Mariner center and league scoring champion, was picked on the WHA's first team for the third time in the league's three-year history. The diminutive Lacroix, 29, tallied 41 goals and 106 assists for 147 points as he captured his second scoring crown in three terms.

Morrison, 25-year-old defenseman, led all league blue liners with 81 points while the 34-year-old Rivers amassed 54 goals and 53 assists for 107 points from his right wing spot, also a league high at that position.

Experts Vote

Balloting for the WHA teams was conducted among writers and sportscasters in the 14 league cities. The Hockey News poll was taken from staff correspondents while the Sporting News tabulations were from votes of the WHA players.

In other categories announced by the WHA, Lacroix was second to Winnipeg's Bobby Hull in voting for most valuable player and Morrison was third behind Quebec's J. C. Tremblay and Houston's Paul Popiel in defenseman of the year balloting.

Mariner player-coach Harry Howell finished second behind Phoenix boss Sandy Hucul in voting for coach of the year.

Pirates Close Padres Homestand With 4 Games

The Pittsburgh Pirates will be providing the opposition for the San Diego Padres as the Pads close out their lone homestand of May with four single affairs with the defending National League Eastern Division kingpins.

The Padres and Bucs will collide tonight through Sunday with the Pads out for some revenge for a pair of 7 p.m. with the finale on Sunday at 1 p.m.

Following the clashes with the Pirates, the Padres will make another swing through the East, this time taking on St. Louis May 26-28, New York May 30-31 and June 1, Philadelphia June 2-4 and Montreal June 6-8. San Diego will have two off-days during the swing, getting a day of rest on May 29 and June 5.

"We're anxious to get another crack at the Pirates," said Padre manager John McNamara, thinking back to last week's tough 2-0 and 5-4 losses. "We played well enough in both games to win, but what few breaks there were in the games seemed to go against us. Dan Spillner certainly pitched well enough to win that 2-0 loss, but he had the misfortune to matchup with Jerry Reuss who had everything going for him that evening.

Tough One to Lose

"The 5-4 loss was tough to take as we had battled back to send the game into extra innings, but we got nipped on a two-out bloop single," he said.

As for the road trip, the Padres will be paying a return engagement with the Cardinals as they had hosted St. Louis just prior to the four outings with the Pirates. However, the Pads will be getting their first look of the season at the Mets, Phillies and Expos.

"That Eastern Division seems to be pretty bunched up at the moment," McNamara said. "Unlike our division, there really isn't that much of a gap between the leader and the rest of the pack all the way down to the bottom club. One thing that is keeping things close, at least at the moment, is that, surprisingly, the Eastern Division appears to be playing quite well against the West, something few people had really counted on."

Popular Matadors on Tijuana Bill Sunday

Two of the most popular matadors to appear in Tijuana in recent years and a promising newcomer comprise the cartel for Sunday in the downtown bullring, El Toreo de Tijuana.

They are Curro Rivera, Adrian Romero, and Humberto Moro Jr., who will each face two Reyes Huerta bulls beginning at 4 p.m.

This is the Memorial Day weekend corrida, and the card is strong, so a large crowd is expected in the 14,000-seat arena.

Romero, 25, of Mexico City has been well-liked in Tijuana since his border debut in 1971. He starred in Spain during 1973, but returned to Mexico in time to be one of the biggest award-winners of the Tijuana season last summer.

Romero, noted for his artistry, daring, and placement of banderillas, faced eight bulls at Tijuana last season, winning two tails and seven ears. His first two appearances were his best:

Ears and Tail

On July 14 he won symbolic ears and tail when the life of his Reyes Huerta bull, Mentiroso, was spared; on July 28 he cut a tail from his second foe, a bull of San Antonio de Triana.

Romero also fought in two benefit corridas at Tijuana.

Young Moro became a full-fledged matador Feb. 2 in the traditional ceremony at Mexico City. Taurine critics praised his work that day for its poise, knowledge, art, and valor. He is just into his twenties.

Rivera, 23, of Mexico City opened the Tijuana season May 4. But his first bull was weak, his second was hooking, and he had trouble killing. The fans appreciated his efforts, however, as they have since his Tijuana debut in 1969. Last winter he starred in Mexico City.

Stock Car Saturday Test Is 75 Laps at Cajon Oval

If the drivers don't feel 30 or 40 laps of racing are enough to determine a clear-cut speedway winner, how about 75?

That's the number they'll runn Saturday night in the big holiday super stock car show at the three-eighths of a mile, banked, asphalt oval at Cajon Speedway.

Time trials are slated for 6:30 p.m. with a four-car trophy dash set to roll at 8 p.m. Last week, 65 cars were in the pits for qualifications so the competition is running high and the equipment is getting better.

Heading the field will be three former champions who have scored main event wins this season. They are Jim Hitt of Lemon Grove, the 1971 titleholder; Pat McIntyre of Spring Valley, a two-time champion (1972-73), and Jim Whitt of El Cajon, the 1969 champ.

The holiday program will include a session of qualifying rounds, four-lap trophy dash, four eight-lap heats, a 10 lap consolation and a 25 lap semi-final. This will be the longest main event at Cajon Speedway in over two years and the record will be in danger.

Last week. a five-year old standard was erased in the 40-lapper by Whitt.

The 41-year old plumbing contractor hadn't won a main event since 1969, the same year he won the El Cajon Stock Car Racing Assn. championship. He has been out of racing for two years awaiting a ruling from the IRS on the merits of advertising on his race car. He hopes the victory proves his point.

Whitt beat two-time main event winner John Dineen by a straightaway in the record time of 12 minutes, 31.27 seconds. The old record of 13:30:66 was set in 1970 by two-time ECSCRA champion Russ Bullen of Bonita.

Warnings Given Sportsmen on Fast Rivers

SACRAMENTO — Heavy snows late in the season have deepened the California snow pack and brought it to elevations lower than normal. The Department of Navigation and Ocean Development (DNOD) warns boaters who plan outings on the State's fast-moving rivers that the May thru July river runoff is expected to be swift and heavy.

A Department of Water Resources (DWR) spokesman confirmed the potential danger, saying the icy runoff waters will have their heaviest flow in May, as snow at lower elevations begins to melt. The normal runoff period is April through July. With snow melt delayed until May this year, the runoff will take place in a shortened period of three months. Reservoirs have been lowered to accept the increased volume of water.

Predictions from DWR indicate that through July, the uncontrolled portion of the Cosumnes River will have runoff 74% greater than normal. The uncontrolled portions of the following rivers will have runoffs greater than normal, as indicated: Trinity, 56%, Feather, 47%, Yuba, 41%; Mokelumne, 37%; American and Truckee, 36%; Upper Sacramento, 31%; Tuolumne, 30%; Kings and San Joaquin, 27%.

"Boaters should never attempt to run a river that is beyond their level of skill or knowledge. We advise checking a river's stage and possible reservoir releases before planning any trip," a DNOD spokesman said.

Information on the release of water from certain reservoirs, and the stages of water at certain river stations, is available to interested boaters through DWR by calling (916) 445-3554.

The reservoirs monitored include Shasta, Oroville, Folsom, Friant, Pine Flat, New Hogan, Black Butte, Coyote, Camanche and Clear Lake.

5 State Runners In Calif. Relays

Five athletes from San Diego State U. will compete in the California Relays at Modesto College Saturday.

The meet, which annually draws some of the best track talent in the United States, will begin at 4 p.m.

All five Aztecs will be competing in their specialties at Modesto, and all five had seasonal bests in last weekend's PCAA championships in San Jose.

Three of the runners have qualified for the NCAA championships in June. Quentin Wheeler (50.8) and Mark Ables (51.7) have qualified in the intermediate hurdles, while Harold Williams (21.0) met the qualifying mark in the 220 last weekend.

Two other runners came within a second of qualifying. Earl Robinson, with a 4:04.4 mile, missed the standard by four-tenths of a second. Odie Huffman's 1:50.6 880 was eight-tenths off.

Wheeler, who improved from 51.6 to 50.8, was the sole individual winner for San Diego State. His time was the second fastest in school history, behind Wes Williams' 49.7. His winning mark was also a meet record, improving on the 51.3 set by Dennis Ruby of Long Beach State in 1971.

Huffman's and Robinson's times were both third fastest ever by Aztecs, while Ables moved into a tie for the fifth fastest time ever.

Drizzle Totals .07

The cold, blustery drizzle Tuesday amounted to only .07 of an inch and brought the season's total to 14.31.

It compares with 8.60 last year. The season ends June 30.

TAKE FIVE

By John E. Wirges

Lord Almighty, is there no end to the pain women's lib must visit upon the safe and sane male species? Must females constantly push themselves and their inane ideas upon a society better managed when men had the final say? Is there nothing sacred?

Now broads want to play football. Get out there and bang-your-head-til-your-eyes-popout football. Live and die with your team football. The last vestry of man's mastery of the mystique of sports.

Football? Females play football? Never. Play it, hell. They don't even understand it. They won't even play AT IT very well. Women's idea of football is a lot of pushing and shoving and crying and breaking fingernails and pulling hair and everybody having lots of spirit.

Now, those lady libbers will never admit it, but football is a man's game, pure and simple. It takes a man to understand it. A man to play it and a man to coach it.

Who but a man could appreciate the sheer joy of digging your cleats in the turf and hitting the blocking dummy till your hard hat rings like a stupid bell? Who, but a man, would run sprints under a hot sun in full gear till his fat ran rivers down his backside and into his socks?

Would any female get down on all fours and butt heads like a billygoat? Hell no, they wouldn't.

Would any mother's daughter work so hard that their muscles cried all night? Would any distaff jock pound their best friend into the ground and hustle back each day to do the job over again?

Tennis is a women's sport. Golf even. Crew. Track. Even basketball, maybe. But football? You gotta be kidding.

Take the huddle. For those female grid types that don't know what a huddle is, pay attention. It's when you and the other gals wearing the same color suit as you get together and decide what you're going to do on the next play.

Oh hurt. Oh pain. Wait till those broads find out only one person talks in the huddle. There's no feedback. No suggestions. Just listen up and pay attention.

And when was the last time you ever heard of 10 females keeping their mouths shut at the same time?

O.K., let's say they get the call and line up. Can't you just imagine what the backside of females large enough to play on the line would look like when they take their stance. Before the running backs get the ball, they'd bust out laughing.

"Time out for mirth, Ref. But the way Gwendolyn gets down reminds me of the family cow getting ready to protect her honor."

And speaking of officials, what kind of rules do the gals play by and who calls 'em. I mean, football is sacred to some of us and when we see a civil sacrilege being committed unto it, we tend to exclude those associated with the deed from our hearth and home.

Who would belly up to the bar with a turncoat that aids and abets such criminality. Female folk cavorting about and playing football . . . why it's a diabolical scheme to corrupt the youth of America.

Besides, it'll never catch on. When you remember the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame, you think of speed, power and execution. What mental picture do you conjure up when you think of the Four Mares of Bryn Mawr?

Gals are terrible gossips. When the play is ordered in the huddle, the first thing Mighty Miriam or Tough Thelma does when she gets to the line of scrimmage is brag about it to her opponent.

You know women. Either a secret isn't worth keeping, or too good to keep.

Women playing football, ridiculous. Why, the next thing you know they'll want to tend bar.

Headlights Stolen

The headlight assembly and the molding from Anne J. Larsen's 1966 Mustang was taken sometime during Sunday, May 11, while the car was parked at her home at the curb. She lives at 1953 Ensenada in Lemon Grove.

The loss, she estimates, is $150.

40,000 Motocross Foreseen At Carlsbad's 'Hang 10'

America's 500cc Motocross Champion, Jim Weinert, of Laguna Beach, is hoping that a change of team for 1975 will bring him success in the race that he most wants to win . . . the Hang Ten United States Motocross Grand Prix, slated for Carlsbad Raceway, on June 22, this year. It's the most important motocross race in the United States, drawing some 40,000 fans and being seen by millions more via ABC Television's "Wide World of Sports" show.

After taking the Number One place over for 1975, Weinert quit the Kawasaki team that helped him to victory and chose instead the bumble-bee yellow and black livery of the Yamaha team squad.

Already it looks as though his choice was the right one for him — he swept to the overall victory in the opening National Championship motocross of 1975 last week at Bruceton Mills in West Virginia.

Now he hopes for a repeat of that effort at Carlsbad though his is under no illusions about the difficulties. "I got to be National Champ by beating the best in America" says the guitar-playing Weinert.

"But to win this one I have to beat the best in the world, including World Champion, Heikki Mikkola of Finland, former three-time World Champ, Roger DeCoster of Belgium, and about 20 other European team riders. It don't come easy!"

Dark Horse

An interesting sidelight on Weinert's change of allegiance is the rider that Kawasaki has chosen to replace him. It's young Gary Semics from Lisbon, Ohio, who, barely out of his teens, startled everyone by leading last year's Hang Ten Grand Prix in the heavy-weather opening laps. Slate him as a "dark horse" possibility for this year's race.

In fact, added credence to the possibility of a Kawasaki win in the Hang Ten classic came in the Italian GP on May 11th (another of the rounds in the 500cc World Championship). Victor in the first heat was Kawasaki's Christer Hammargren of Sweden, though reigning World Champion, Heikki Mikkola (Husqvarna) took the second and best overall score. This This hoisted the "Flying Finn" to a healthy lead in the Championship table, with 52 points. He leads last year's Hang Ten Grand Prix winner, Gerrit Wolsink (Suzuki) of Holland (36 points) and 1972 winner, Sweden's Ake Jonsson (Yamaha) who has 28.

Out of luck in Italy was three-time World Champ, Roger DeCoster of Belgium, who was leading both races but was put out with mechanical bothers in each of them. He is presently fourth in the standings with 27 points and is aiming for a win at Carlsbad to put him in contention.

Tuborg 400 to Draw Top Drivers at Riverside

RIVERSIDE — Five of the six drivers who have won Grand National stock car races in 1975 will compete in the June 8 Tuborg 400 at Riverside International Raceway, according to RIR president Les Richter.

Entries for the $80,000 road race have been received from Richard Petty, Bobby Allison, Benny Parsons and Darrell Waltrip, Richter says, and one from defending Tuborg champion Cale Yarborough is expected.

The only other 1975 winner was Buddy Baker who has indicated he won't make the Riverside road race.

Petty has won five races this year and more than $90,000. His career winnings now total $1.9 million and he seems certain to pass the two-million dollar mark this year.

The popular 37-year-old driver from Randleman, N.C., will be driving the familiar red and blue STP Dodge at Riverside.

Allison, who won the Winston Western 500 at Riverside in January, is the only other driver to have won more than once in 1975. The Hueytown, Ala., veteran also won the Rebel 400 at Darlington, S.C., and will be driving the same Coca Cola Matador at Riverside.

Nashville Winner

Parsons, the 1973 NASCAR driving champion, was an upset winner of the Daytona 500 in February, the biggest event on the Winston Cup circuit. Both he and Waltrip, winner of the Nashville 420 recently, will be in 1975 Chevrolets.

Yarborough swept both Grand National races at Riverside in 1974, but loss of sponsorship caused him to skip the Winston race last January. So, he actually returns to Riverside having won his last two races here.

Yarborough won early this season at Rockingham, N.C., and will drive Junior Johnson's Chevrolet at Riverside.

Richter earlier announced that both the Tuborg 400 and the companion feature late model sportsman race, the California 100, would be held on the same day. The Cal 100 will get under way at 11 a.m. and the Tuborg 400 at 12:30.

Practice and qualifying for the California 100 will be held on Sunday, June 1. Tuborg 400 practice begins Tuesday, June 5, with qualifying for the 35 starting positions following Friday and Saturday.

Breakers Sign Three Open Play S.D. Friday

The San Diego Breakers, the new professional volleyball team, has signed former All-Americans Larry Milliken and Chris Kane, as well as former San Diego State star Wayne Gracey.

Milliken is a six-time United States Volleyball Association (USVBA) All-American selection. He first won USVBA honors in 1966 when he was named Rookie of the Year and was first-team collegiate All-American. A 6-foot-1 inch performer, Milliken can block, hit, pass and set for the Breakers. Nicknamed "Boomer" because of his powerful arm swing, he attended Church College of Hawaii.

A starter for the U.C. Santa Barbara team that last year became the first college squad to win the USVBA open championship, Kane rejoins his former coach Rudy Suwara with the Breakers. For his efforts he was named first team collegiate All-American, honorable mention open All-American and was named to the USVBA all-rookie team. Kane is an all around player, who will help the Breakers with his passing, hitting and blocking. He stands 6 feet-1 inch tall.

Gracey, 6 feet-2 inches, is known as a top passer and defensive player. He started for San Diego State's 1973 NCAA champions.

The season opens Friday at the Sports Arena at 8 p.m. against El Paso-Juarez.

$100,000 Feature At Hollypark Track

Capitalizing on the talents of Chilean-bred millionaire Cougar 2nd and stretch-running powerhouse Quack, trainer Charlie Whittingham has saddled the winner of the last four runnings of The Californian at Hollywood Park.

When the $100,000 feature is renewed for a 22nd time Monday, Memorial Day, Whittingham's chief hope to make it five-in-a-row in the traditional holiday attraction will be his distaff ace, Gay Style.

The mile and one-sixteenth Californian will climax a big weekend of thoroughbred sport that will begin Saturday with the $40,000 Princess Stakes and continue Sunday, when the $40,000 South Bay Handicap is the headliner.

Popular Sunday Sweep, the handicapping contest staged every Sunday at the Inglewood track, will be played again next weekend, when a $10,000 bonus will go to anyone tabbing nine straight winners. If no one picks nine in a row, a $1,000 prize will go to the person or persons selecting the most consecutive winners, beginning with the first race.

State PTA Convention Yields Many Resolutions

3,137 delegates passed several resolutions at the 76th annual California State PTA Convention held in Los Angeles April 30 through May 2.

An emergency resolution on Early Childhood Education was adopted urging the Governor and members of the state legislature to support existing ECE programs and provide funds for expansion.

The convention delegates also voted to advocate:

- legislation regulating explicit exhibitions of human sexuality and nudity in drive-in theaters;
- alternatives to Halloween trick or treating for children;
- elementary and secondary courses in traffic safety and accident prevention, and
- a comprehensive educational program for immunization of children against certain communicable diseases.

Delegates also voted to reaffirm the position taken by the California State PTA Board of Managers in March opposing collective bargaining legislation which specifically contains any of three elements: the right to strike, binding arbitration or agency shop.

Heavy CHP Deployment Planned for Holiday

California Highway Patrol Captain Richard L. Dolmseth, recently appointed San Diego area commander, replacing Captain Leonard DeGroff, said this week that every available officer in his area would be deployed over the Memorial Day holidays in an effort to reduce this year's accident toll.

Last year, during that period, 44 people lost their lives as a result of traffic accidents. In San Diego CHP recorded one fatality and 27 injuries in 64 accidents.

California's worst Memorial Day weekend in history was in 1972 when 88 fatalities were recorded.

Last year the total was 44 across the state, a lower than average figure. The 10-year average is 50.3 fatalities.

Last year's lower-than-average figure was due to the gasoline shortage.

However, this year a greater availability of gasoline, and with the current increase in traffic statistics over those of last year, there may be an increase of traffic accidents over this Memorial Day weekend, Dolmseth said.

He said a special emphasis will be placed on speeding and drinking drivers. The statistical realities of our previous Memorial Day holidays totally fail to describe these recorded tragedies. The San Diego CHP Commander said, "I can only ask motorists who will be on the road during the Memorial Day weekend to think about what it takes to avoid a repetition of the last few years' carnage on the highway, and then ask them to drive accordingly."

DeGroff was promoted to inspector and transferred to the Los Angeles area.

Assessor Prompts Business Owners

6,500 reminder letters were mailed to all owners of business personal property and fixtures who have failed to file a required property statement with the County Assessor.

Property statement forms were mailed in late February so that property owners would have sufficient time to prepare and return them to the Assessor's office by April 1, the due date," E. C. Williams, County Assessor said.

Williams warns that, by law, penalties are automatic for late filing or failure to file. "The Assessor has no discretion in the matter of penalties, and May 30, at 5 p.m., is the last day for filing without a penalty," Williams said.

"Experience has shown that the failure to file these forms on time has been a costly matter to these property owners in past years.

"Approximately 1,000 received a penalty for late filing last year. We send the reminder each year in an effort to assist these property owners in meeting the deadline and to save them the penalty fees," he said.

Tool Box Taken

A box of tools valued at $100 was taken from the yard of Jay Dean Lazear of 2227 Morose st., Lemon Grove on May 16.

Jobs for Seniors Offered By Manpower Grant Project

The San Diego Kind Corporation, operator of the downtown Senior Center, has received an $85,000 federal manpower grant from the San Diego Regional Employment and Training Consortium. The funds will be used through October for the Kind Corporation's "Placement and Retraining Opportunities for Vitalizing Economically Neglected Seniors" program.

About 40 part-time work experience positions will be available to persons 60 years of age and above living on limited income in various nonprofit agencies and organizations serving San Diego County. The positions, funded under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, will be used to improve the job skills of the senior citizens.

The Natural History Museum is recruiting men and women who enjoy the out-of-doors and working informally with school children and adults to participate in a special 10-week fall workshop for volunteers. Guides will be trained to take part in a program of outdoor, environmental education, and lead tours through the museum's newest outdoor exhibit, Balboa Park's Florida Canyon Nature Trails.

False Bill Caper

A man presented a bill for $21 to a gasoline pump girl at the UROCO station at 7505 Broadway in Lemon Grove about 5 p.m. May 15.

The manager was not present at the time but he had his story down well enough that he convinced Beckie Lynn Butram that the obligation was valid—so she paid it.

The station manager said it was a rip-off—that he knew nothing of $21 worth of gas and oil magazines the bill was supposed to represent.

OPEC Lands Lead Cheque Purchases

Spending patterns of oil-rich countries for travel and travel-related purchases are changing rapidly.

A study conducted by BankAmerica Travelers Cheques indicates that in today's market the largest individual purchases of travelers cheques are made in member states of OPEC (Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries) rather than in industrialized countries.

Of the OPEC and industrial countries covered in the study, Kuwait, one of the world's leading oil producing nations, placed first with average individual purchases of $887. Indonesia ranks second with nearly $600 in travelers cheques purchased by individuals.

We're Not Alone

Is there life on other planets? "We Are Not Alone," a film showing this weekend at the Natural History Museum, reviews evidence in support of the hypothesis that there is life on other plants and illustrates techniques used by exobiologists, astronomers and biochemists in their research attempts to answer the question: Are we the only creatures to inhabit the universe?

Scientific films are shown each Saturday and Sunday at 1:30 and 3 p.m. in the Museum auditorium and are included in a general admission charge.

Dear Editor:

I would greatly appreciate your publishing this letter because I feel that it is about time that some of our people are intelligent enough to understand that we as a great nation have become great and powerful and prosperous because we have been willing to stand for a policy of open trade routes to world markets.

We are a nation of producers of all kinds of goods, from fish to the most sophisticated electronic devices. As we said to the Barbary Pirates of Tripoli, "Our hills are covered with oaks, our mountains are filled with iron, and we will not tolerate anyone interfering with our merchantmen on the open seas." We must say this to the modern pirates of Ecuador who confiscate our fishing boats by having fines claimed on a two hundred mile territorial limit.

Every time a ship is taken it does three things. First, it violates the law of open sea routes. Second, it puts American workmen out of work. Third, it raises the cost of food. We must understand that the policy of open trade routes must be followed with vigor and determination, for there will always be those with piracy in their hearts and jealousy of our national prosperity. A nation that does not defend its routes at sea will soon perish from the face of the earth, especially one like ours that sells manufactured goods around the world to people who need our goods sorely.

We must be willing to enforce the doctrine of open sea routes for all ships of all natioins. We must be willing to play the game of give and take. But we must let our people know unless these trade routes are defended and our ships protected that we will soon become a second or third-class dying nation.

The British Empire is an example of what can happen to a great power as soon as it lets this happen. When it began losing its trade in Africa, in India, and in other parts of the world she started to decline politically and economically to the extent that today the British pound is worth just a fraction of its original value.

But the problem that bothers me and must be taken into consideration by our college students who start parading the minute we stand up to defend our rights is that great educational systems cannot be maintained when a nation is staggering economically and taxpayers lose their jobs and cannot pay taxes or even purchase food without the help of the federal government.

Let us stand by our President and those that will defend the principle of freedom on the open seas and protection of our sea routes to the markets of the world. This letter is written that people might think and think seriously and earnestly on this problem.

Yours for a greater America,

Van Deerlin Speaks Out For Military Commissaries

Phasing out support for military commissaries, as the Pentagon proposes to do, "would be another, totally undeserved blow at our military people," Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-San Diego, was to have told a House subcommittee today.

The first blows, he said, were the 1958 and 1963 laws stripping military retirees of the right to peg their pay to active duty rates.

Van Deerlin said commissary privileges, like retirement pay recomputation, were designed as inducements to compensate for the "normal hardships" of military life.

In testimony to the House Armed Services Investigations subcommittee, he said nearly 70,000 military personnel and "thousands" of retirees reside in his South Bay district.

"It's no problem for me, politically, to support the commissaries," he said. "But this is a position I would take even if there were not a single commissary user in my district."

The San Diego area has four commissaries, which charge about 20 percent less than civilian supermarkets. The military stores do not pay rent, or collect sales taxes, and employees' salaries are paid by the government.

Phasing Out

The Defense Department proposes to cut commissary subsidies by 50 percent beginning Oct. 1, 1975, and end them altogether by Oct. 1, 1976. In addition, a still unreleased report by the General Accounting Office recommends that all commissaries in cities such as San Diego be closed because supermarkets are available.

Van Deerlin said the GAO findings "beg the real question about our obligations to the military personnel."

"Life for these careerists is one move after another, interspersed with long stretches of sea duty," the San Diego congressman said of his Navy constituents. "These are not normal or easy circumstances under which to try to raise a family."

Non-Coms Paid More

He said the loss of the recomputation right has hurt many retirees because the living cost increases they now receive have not kept pace with active duty raises. As an example, he cited a Navy chief who retired 15 years ago and is paid $84 a month less than a non-com of the same grade and service who retires now.

The retirees, he said, are particularly dependent on the low prices offered by the commissaries.

Bills before the subcommittee would require the Defense Department to continue subsidizing the commissaries at current levels.

State Bill Limits Penalty On Early Mortgage Payoff

A bill, which would help a homeowner pay off a mortgage, could ease the problems and frustrations a homeowner is faced with, according to the president of the California Association of Realtors.

Richard C. Farrer. head of CAR, referred to Senate Bill 280, authored by Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter (R-Newport Beach).

SB 280 is applicable only to single-family, owner-occupied dwellings.

It would forbid prepayment penalties after a loan has been in effect for five years. Additionally, it would limit penalties during the first five years to six months' interest on the sum prepaid after deduction of 20 percent of the original principal amount.

Farrer stated that the penalty involved is to insure that the lender recovers his costs during the first five years.

The bill, which passed the full Senate 34-0, is now in committee in the State Assembly.

ARB Testing for Fire Hazards in Catalytic Converters

The Stafe Air Resources Board announced today it has commenced a study to determine if catalytic converters on 1975 cars pose any kind of fire hazard. ARB Chairman Tom Quinn said auto manufacturers have received some unverified reports linking the catalysts to vehicle fires.

"We are now testing vehicles at the ARB laboratory in El Monte and in addition we will be cooperating in a more extensive study this summer with the U. S. Forest Service and the state Division of Forestry." Quinn explained.

He said several hundred fires are caused annually by automobiles usually in dry brush areas.

Bicentennial Poses Challenge to Local Tourism, SCVC Says

Tourism in this part of the state faces what the Southern California Visitors Council calls a major challenge in the near future — the American Revolution Bicentennial.

"Travel industry 'promotion now assumes an even more vital role to the Southern California economy, in the light of massive campaigns planned by Eastern seaboard states to lure prospective visitors there," declares William P. Brotherton, managing director of the Southern California Visitors Council.

Some 8.3 million travelers from other states and countries poured $2.2 billion into the Southern California economy during 1974. "The tourist industry accounts for one job in every five in the Southland," Brotherton explains.

Out-of-state visitors also boosted state and local tax coffers by more than $100 million, "and that's money which otherwise would have come from the pockets of our residents," adds the tourist industry spokesman.

The Council staff is now laying the final stages of its own promotional campaign for the Bicentennial. Besides wide-scale advertising and publicity efforts within the United States, the Council plans to conduct "blitzes" in four major international markets.
